Marcum continues acquisition spree

Marcum, a national accounting and advisory services firm with a significant presence in Hartford, continues its expansion. It has added a multi-state CPA firm to its ranks.

As of today, it will merge with DGLF CPAs & Business Advisors, a full-service accounting firm specializing in construction and real estate, with offices in Nashville, Tenn., and Orlando, Fla. All eight DGLF partners have joined Marcum as members of the firm's national construction industry practice group.

Marcum has Connecticut offices in Hartford, Greenwich and New Haven. As of January 2015 Marcum had 125 staffers in Hartford, including 54 partners, according to the Hartford Business Journal's Book of Lists.

DGLF represents the third merger announced by Marcum in the past month. On Nov. 1, the firm merged with Frost, Ruttenger & Rothblatt P.C. of Chicago, giving Marcum its first entry into the Midwest market. On Nov. 20, Marcum announced its merger with Smart, Devine & Co. LLC, a full-service accounting and consulting firm headquartered in Philadelphia, that also takes effect today. With these two latest mergers, Marcum will have nearly 1,500 professionals and more than 200 partners in 29 offices.
